

2018-2019:

Awards for Graduate Student Dissertation Research

Zhe Zhang

Political Science, research on nation building and the handling of ethnic minorities in China, phenomenon of minorities being left out of benefits of development

Kristine Li

Political Science, research on state building and development in China, focus on pre-reform origins of local state policies supporting market development

Yu-Chi Chang

History, mapping and the imagination of territorial boundaries/sovereignty in Chinese history

Yifeng Cai

Anthropology, patterns of interaction and social media participation (dating apps) among gay men in China.

Sam Goldstein

Religious Studies, Daoist texts from China's Warring States period (450-200 BC)

Awards for Graduate Student Language Study

Lillian Tsay

History, intensive study of Japanese for comparative Awards for Graduate Student Language Study

Patrick Magoffin

Religious Studies, intensive study of Japanese for research on Chinese Buddhism

Awards for Graduate Student Predissertation Research

Baoli Yang

Comparative Literature

Fosca Maddaloni

History of Art and Architecture

Awards for Faculty Research

Matt Gutmann

Anthropology

Research on male suicide in China

Wang Lingzhen

East Asian Studies

Research on contemporary Chinese women's independent documentary films.

Elena Shih

American Studies

Research on how China's "Belt and Road" investment strategy impacts urbanization and ethnic minority relations in China's Southwest border areas.

Dore Levy

Comparative Literature

The influence of the geography of Sichuan province on Chinese poetry and art historically.