Professional Experience

Director of Privacy and Civil Liberties, The White House, National Security Staff. August 2009-November 2010.

- Advised the National Security Council on privacy and civil liberties issues, fulfilling President Obama’s commitment in his May 29, 2009 cybersecurity address to designate to the National Security Staff “an official with a portfolio specifically dedicated to safeguarding the privacy and civil liberties of the American people.” Chaired an interagency policy subcommittee on privacy, civil liberties, and cybersecurity composed of the chief privacy and civil liberties officers of the major Departments and agencies. Chaired a working group on privacy and security for President Obama’s Open Government Initiative, and served as the National Security Staff representative to several other interagency groups on privacy, security, personal data, Internet freedom, and technology issues.

Senior Associate General Counsel, Office of the Director of National Intelligence. November 2010-December 2012.

- Advised the Program Manager for the Information Sharing Environment, charged by Congress with facilitating the secure sharing of terrorism-related information among the law enforcement, homeland security, intelligence, foreign affairs and defense communities.

Deputy for Civil Liberties, Office of the Director of National Intelligence. June 2006-August 2009.

- Supported the Director of National Intelligence in his role as head of the Intelligence Community by ensuring that intelligence programs include adequate procedures to protect privacy and civil liberties. Conducted reviews of several sensitive programs, including new foreign intelligence surveillance authorities provided by the FISA Amendments Act, redress procedures for the terrorist watchlist, and revision of the Executive Order governing intelligence activities and United States persons. Awards included the Intelligence Community’s “legal team of the year” award for a review of the Comprehensive National Cybersecurity Initiative.

National Security Policy Counsel, American Civil Liberties Union. May 2001-March 2006.

- Spearheaded the organization’s innovative left-right coalition to lobby Congress to provide more robust privacy and civil liberties safeguards in a number of post-9/11 initiatives, including the USA Patriot Act, Homeland Security Act, and intelligence reform. Duties included testifying before Congressional committees and appearing in major national television, radio, and print media. Awards included “pro bono attorney of the year” from the Arab-American Anti-Discrimination Committee.

Associate Attorney, Shea & Gardner. August 1998-May 2001.

- Worked on complex mass torts litigation and legislative efforts to address the asbestos litigation crisis. Advised non-profit clients, on a pro bono basis, on democracy and foreign policy matters.

Legal Adviser, Gore-Lieberman Campaign. July-December 2000.

- Served on the legal team vetting running mates for the Gore 2000 presidential campaign, assisted in debate preparation and in the 2000 presidential recount efforts, including on the Supreme Court briefs.

Law Clerk, Judge Sandra L. Lynch, United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit. August 1997-August 1998.
